COCOA BEACH HIGH SCHOOL
COCOA BEACH, FLORIDA
VOLUME I

MINUTE MEN

The school year passes before our eyes. We remember the confusion that could only be found in a new school—trying to find our way around the vast building—mopping up after Hurricane Cleo— organizing classes—meeting new teachers—waiting for textbooks—taking different courses—joining clubs—attending meetings—paying dues—undertaking projects—painting posters—baking cookies—participating in activities—cheering at pep rallies—dressing up for Sadie Hawkin's night—playing basketball with the faculty—voting for Mr. Ugly—dancing at the prom—forming teams—practicing many hours—tasting sweet victory—sampling bitter defeat—riding buses—changing classes—eating lunch—making new friends, losing old ones—and graduating.

In the years that follow, we will forget the grades we made and the points we scored, yet we will never completely forget the time period from September, 1964 to June, 1965. The events are now part of our Heritage, a living part of the heritage of Cocoa Beach High School. These everyday happenings are recorded as a memory link with the past to be carried with us into the future. In years to come, students will look to the Heritage as a history of things we did. They may copy our ideas or pass them over in place of something new. But, this year and this yearbook are ours. They may never be duplicated. They are the end result of a dream, which became a plan, now offered to you as a reality by the staff of the 1965 Heritage. May it continue to grow in the future upon the foundation we have laid.

A dream—Cocoa Beach High School.

The truly significant interpretation of any person's dream is possible only after one obtains a thorough knowledge of the individual's personality, and with the aid of what the dreamer himself associates with the manifest details of the dream. The dream of building a high school in Cocoa Beach had been dwelling in many people's minds for several years. Last year the need for a junior-senior high school on the Beach became even greater as a result of a definite lack of space in other county schools. Plans were made with the architect to build the new school as a completely functional building, and steps were taken towards the procurement of the property near the end of Cocoa Avenue as the site of the new school. Within a few months enough sand had been dredged up from the Banana River for the construction to begin. On September 8, 1964 Cocoa Beach Junior-Senior High School became a reality. Now, not only was the building itself complete; but, the students of Cocoa Beach had entered and begun their education. For a school is much more than a building—it is not complete until it houses the students of the community.

ACADEMICS

As the structures for Cocoa Beach High were being built, the next dream was to employ the most qualified teachers available. At his temporary offices at Freedom 7 Elementary School, Dr. Constans interviewed and selected his capable faculty. These teachers then ordered the books, films and supplies they needed to assist them in presenting their subject to students. At the end of August, the faculty met as a body for the first time in the nearly completed school and planned the groundwork for their new approach to education. The students then planned their schedules after meeting with the teachers and reviewing the courses offered. September 8, 1964 brought students, teachers, and administrators together for the first time for one common purpose; to learn from one another. It took much time to get organized and settled in a building where at times there were more workmen than students, but everyone managed and classes went on.

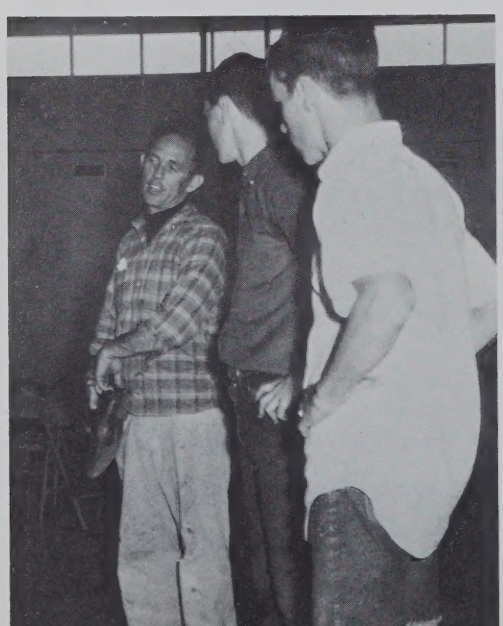
DR. PHIL CONSTANS, Principal, Cocoa Beach High School

Setting up chairs for a concert.



The best way to describe Dr. Constans would be to say he is a man with a sense of patience, self-discipline and justice. Because of this, the student body turns to him for advice. In replying he is stern but informal. He respects the rights and responsibilities of each student. In return he asks each student to observe the faculty's viewpoint with courtesy and civility. These intangible virtues of man's character produce trustworthy and respected individuals. Dr. Constans belongs to this level of personalities.

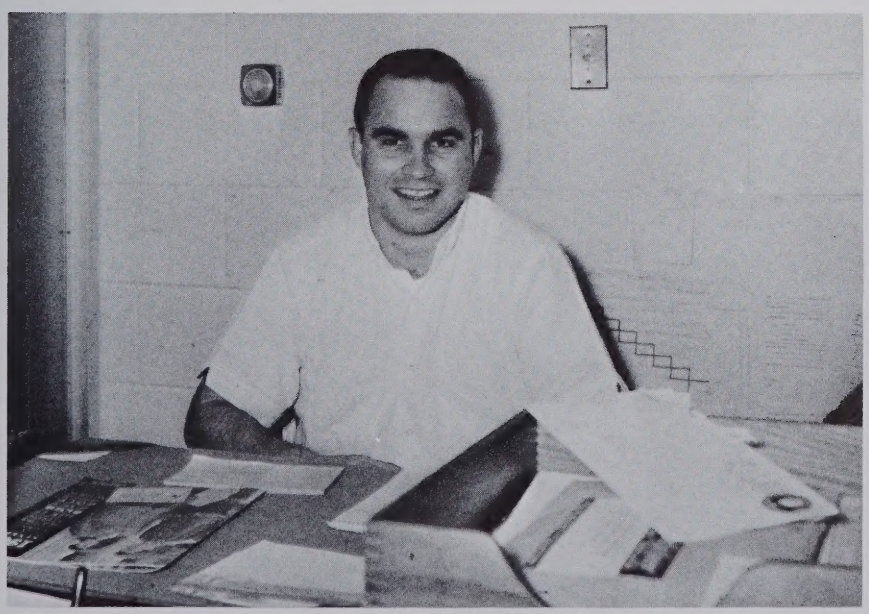
ADMINISTRATION

MR. EDDIE FEELY



Working behind our principal, Cocoa Beach High School is proud to have three competent men: Dr. Robert Kite, the Assistant Principal; Mr. Billy Davis, the Intern Assistant Principal; and Mr. Eddie Feely, the Administrative Dean of students.

Dr. Kite has the job of assisting Dr. Constans in various ways. He has contributed much to the school, working closely with the students and faculty with both personal and academic problems. Mr. Davis has rendered services in almost every phase of student business. He often sits in on classes, listening to students and evaluating teachers. Someday, Mr. Davis hopes to be principal of his own school. Mr. Feely also performs many duties. It is his job to maintain order among Cocoa Beach High School's students. Although his is a frustrating, thankless job, he always has a smile for everyone.

STAFF

Mrs. Kaisler takes another message.

Mrs. Smith aids Dr. Constans.

A hard working and helpful group is the front office staff. Students seem to believe they possess the answers to all their questions. Each school day is filled with confusion as these questions are brought to the office to be solved. But, work goes on despite the interruption. The student body owes the secretaries and their assistants a vote of thanks for all the work they did.

GUIDANCE COUNSELORS

The Guidance Department was an invaluable source of help to the students throughout the first confusing year of the operation of Cocoa Beach High School. Through testing and counseling, Mr. Harris and Mrs. Garner were able to aid all students. They were especially helpful to the Seniors by helping them select colleges, helpful courses and, most important, a vocation.

ENGLISH

Realizing the great importance of effective communication as a basis for all education, the Cocoa Beach High School English Department sincerely endeavors to train its students in all phases of written and oral communication.

It is the aim of these instructors to teach proficiency in using, in speaking, and in writing the English language. They also strive to stimulate an interest in our literary heritage. Success in almost any field is determined by one's ability to use English effectively.

LANGUAGES

Languages form an important bond among nations. Latin, Spanish, French, German and Russian help to build the bridges linking countries. It is imperative that a person know something of the language of another country in order to communicate with its inhabitants. The Language Department of Cocoa Beach High School stresses understanding in the study of foreign languages.

The Latin department, furnishing the background from which the romance languages have stemmed, spices its method by such projects as the construction of maps which trace Caesar's campaign. Spanish classes are taught the language orally, although a sound base in grammar is also stressed. In the study of French, great emphasis is placed on enunciation. Students progress from simple conversation and elementary grammar to intermediate speech composition. Study of the standard language of the educated German speaker forms the basis for the acquisition of practical skill in the use of the spoken as well as the written word. In the study of the Russian language, emphasis is placed on the peculiarities of the language which in turn reflects the life of the Russian people.

MATHEMATICS

In all its long history, math has never been so lively a subject as it is today. Vital in this atomic age, the science of numbers requires and creates fresh ideas needed to solve problems such as ones relating to inventions for space. The Mathematics Department provides a variety of courses to develop in the student a full background in mathematics. Only a certain amount of math is required for graduation but interested students may delve further into the mysteries of math.

SCIENCE

Today, more than ever before, science is growing in popularity among young and old alike. It is a mystery to the young and an intrigue to the old.

Students at Cocoa Beach High School have the advantage of studying under a staff that takes pride in its ability to present science in a most interesting and informative fashion.

As time passes, our science laboratories will become better equipped to accomodate the increasing demands now being placed upon them by our student body. Through the knowledge gained in these classes, Minutemen graduates will be able to advance and to take advantage of the wonderful opportunities which are available in the world of science.

THE STUDY OF SOCIETIES

SOCIAL STUDIES

The world is ever changing—mentally and physically. In order to understand the world better, a student should take a look at the past. Also, he should look at the changing present, since the world is a mixture of old and new.

In Social Studies classes, where man's problems are analyzed, current events are used to take the place of the textbook. Students study American history, government, and economy combined with world history and the makings of Communism.

By studying and discussing the economic, social, and political problems of the world and her inhabitants, a student will be aware of what to expect when he leaves school to make his mark in the world.

FINE ARTS

In school, through various gateways to knowledge, students are offered numerous opportunities to satisfy their basic needs for expression. The Fine Arts Department helps the student to express the spiritual side of man's nature; the love of beauty in the world around him.

Music, the universal language, declares their feelings; art, in the form of painting and sculpture, conveys their philosophies; drama enacts their emotions; and public speaking helps them to express clearly their thoughts in words.

Thus, by these expressions, students are prepared to make their contributions to man's culture by communicating with the people of the world.

PRACTICAL ARTS

To prepare for the roles of responsible men and women, students of Cocoa Beach High School learned the practical arts of everyday living. The woman—a proud homemaker and mother. The man—a many-skilled individual. Both of whom take much joy from being a pleasant and important member of the household.

In the Industrial Arts Department, boys learned the skills of woodworking and electrical composition. In the Home Economics Department, young ladies were taught the techniques of sewing and culinary art.

Tomorrow's teachers must be trained today. Students who best utilize the variety of commercial courses offered at Cocoa Beach High School are able to prepare adequately for their vocations. Our Business Department is both well-equipped and efficient. It offers courses in typing, shorthand, business law and business math. The importance of a strong body is equal to that of an alert mind. Under the supervision of their instructors, the students were taught the values of fairness and good sportsmanship, as well as those of being physically fit. Driver Education, included in Physical Education, taught students both in the classroom and on the road, the fundamentals of good driving.

In this age of astronautical advances, great economic problems, and hard-won personal liberties, Americans are indebted to those persons who produce their food, clothe them, design their cities, and do the thousands of other things which keep this nation great and prosperous.

Vendibility was the key word in the Distributive Education program under the sponsorship of Mr. Sheib. This active organization was designed to help students secure and maintain positions in wholesale and retail occupations while still in school. In the classroom, DECA members received instructions in sales techniques which they were able to put into daily practice on the job.

Courses in vocational drafting, mechanical drawing, and electronics helped students not planning on attending college to attain a foundation for employment in the selective fields they wish to enter. The Cocoa Beach High School Vocational Arts Department offers the best and most up-to-date facilities for students to better develop themselves in this way.

LIBRARY

Students came to the library to find books for study and enjoyment. The knowledge to be gained was present in many forms. Magazines, fictional and non-fictional books, and reference volumes were among the materials available to the student. To supplement the lack of back issues of magazines, the library provided microfilms of these issues. The films could be shown on the three projectors in the reference room. The reading rooms offered a place for reading and study without distraction. The paperback store, operated by the yearbook staff, gave students the opportunity of purchasing an assortment of books for school work and pleasure.

ADULT GROUPS

The ability of a school to function properly so that it might be displayed at its best depends upon the cooperation of other groups inside the school. Cocoa Beach High School was fortunate to have such efficient and dedicated groups doing unnoticed, thankless tasks for their benefit.

One of the groups were the lunchroom staff. These ladies worked hard to prepare and to serve an appetizing array of meats, vegetables, fruits and desserts to many hungry Minutemen. They provided a clean and friendly atmosphere for students to enjoy their lunches. Another of these working groups, the custodians, were responsibile for keeping the school and the surrounding area in top condition. They were the unsung heros who keep our floors swept, our windows washed, and our chalk boards clean. Without them, the school would have rapidly deteriorated and would not be the outstanding building that it is.

HAIRY DRAWINGS BY BILL WADE

Cocoa Beach High School

You've heard of the Heritage, but now we have the "Hairy Pages" the part of your annual that really tells the truth about CBHS and its students.

Our school is operated on the "Space Plan", a new concept in educational ideas. This modern plan is designed to use personnel, materials, and facilities to their utmost capacity. The "Space Plan" must certainly be reaching its highest expectations. For instance, look at the extraordinary amount of freedom CBHS students are allowed. This is easily noticeable right in front of the school on Cocoa Avenue, where top educators may be seen setting up roadblocks to catch students exercising their new found freedom.

At any rate, this magazine intends to search out education as it really exists at CBHS.

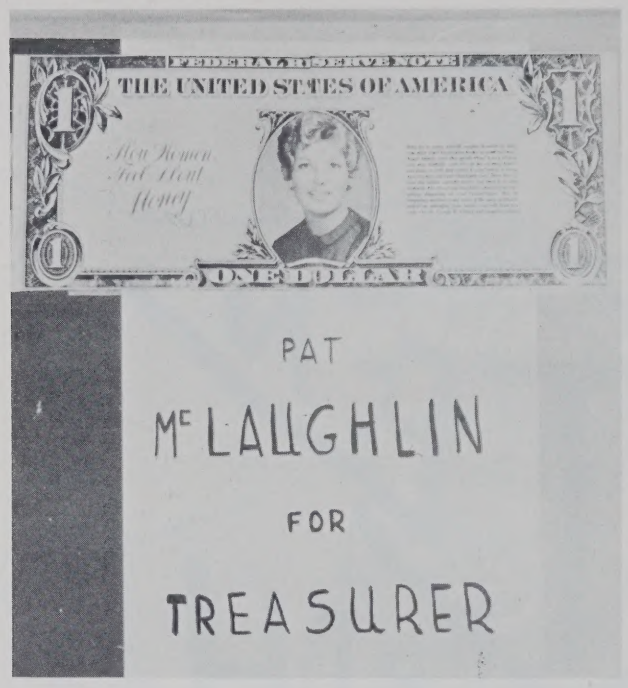
ORGANIZATIONS



Her dream—to hold an office.

As Cocoa Beach High School became a reality, its organizations were a dream to many students. These students wanted to form clubs for several reasons; to learn, for increasing knowledge, for service in the school and community, and for enjoyment. After deciding to form a club, plans had to be made concerning sponsors, officers, constitutions, and members. Nationally-affiliated clubs such as National Honor Society, Beta Club, Mu Alpha Theta, and Interact had to obtain charters in order to be considered an individual organization. After all of these details had been worked out, the realness of meetings made the necessity and usefulness of the planning apparent. Helping to beautify the school by the planting of trees, raising money for the March of Dimes around the Commons, and assisting the teachers on teacher work days were a few of the many services undertaken by school clubs. Hearing guest speakers and taking field trips were important to academically-oriented organizations. Planning dances, enjoying trail rides, and supporting political parties were activities centered around pleasure. All projects planned by the clubs were important because they helped build character as well as responsibility in the student by teaching him how to work well with others.

This year, the first one in the history of Cocoa Beach High, was a year that saw a mild revolution in student government. The students of this school in a new and unique building, brought forth a new and unique idea on the theory of student government. Delegates chosen from the various social studies classes in school met in September and from this body of 60 to 70 individuals, a smaller, more workable group was chosen. This second group, called the Constitution Drafting Committee, set about to write a constitution for a student council. While working on a constitution for a traditional student council the idea of a school government was first conceived. After many more meetings of the Constitutional Drafting Committee plus meetings of the now formed Constitutional Steering Committee, a Constitution for a school government was drafted and ratified.

The reason for enlarging upon the concept of a simple student council to a total school government was to provide a workable body for the solving of all school problems. In our school government this body is the Senate. In the Senate, problems concerning both students and faculty are solved by representatives of the student body and the faculty. The Senate creates a good relationship between the students and the faculty, and provides a means of communication between students and faculty. The concept of a school government is a flexible system in which the Senate has vast powers to decide, initiate, or solve any problems, situation, or differences that arise in school pertaining to the faculty and student body.

The theory of this school is one of individual responsibility; each individual student taking it upon himself to do what is right in order to reflect the proper image of our school. This new school government is part of this theory, giving each student a responsibile part in the workings of his government.

The Junior High Math Club was patterned in the same way as the senior high club. These students, who make math a game, learned much while having a good time. A special interest of the club was the exploration of career opportunities in the field of mathematics.

The Junior Hi-Y Club not only had fun, but also stressed service. Every project and activity was undertaken for one purpose: "to create, maintain and extend throughout the home, school and community high standards of Christian character."

BETA

The Beta Club, an affiliation of the National Beta Club, is dedicated to the promotion of leadership, scholarship, citizenship, and to the service of Cocoa Beach High School and the community.

A respected part of the school, Beta Club functioned under the ideals of worthy character, good mentality, creditable achievement and commendable attitude. Members from the sophomore, junior, and senior classes maintained these concepts along with a 3.0 average, always keeping in mind the honor of their position.

PREHISTORY

The Pre-History Club was founded on the idea of promoting interest among young people in the Earth Sciences. Particular emphasis was placed on Historical Geology, Palaeontology, Anthropology, Archaeology, and the Biological Sciences.

During academic year, these individuals participated in such activities as field work, searching for fossils, and examining relics. The Cocoa-Cocoa Beach area, being rich in such antiquities, was a prime spot for excavating. The club also learned valuable skills of cleaning, identifying, and displaying their specimens.

As part of the Pre-History program, the members found themselves engaged in Historical activities with several other Archaeology clubs in the area.

FSA

An active club at Cocoa Beach High School was the Future Secretaries, a chapter of the National Secretaries of America International. Studying the aspects of secretarial practice, the members enjoyed speakers from local firms who spoke on work habits, human relations, and job application.

They also toured business areas and organized various money-making projects. The highlight of the year for the Future Secretaries was a quite successful banquet.

Throughout the year, these career-minded girls worked to fulfill the purpose of better equiping themselves to qualify for a secretarial position.

FHA

The Future Homemakers of America operated with the hope of molding young women of high ideals and good character, and with the practical purpose of better education in the skills of home and kitchen. What girl does not look forward to managing her own home in the near future?

All of the projects which the club undertook, either service or money-making, gave each girl valuable experience. The F.H.A. girls proved their culinary proficiency with several bake sales which offered delectable goodies for hungry Minutemen.

One of the high points of the Club's activities this year was attending the District convention in Vero Beach. Also, in the spring, two honored members of this Cocoa Beach chapter journeyed to the State Convention in Clearwater.

DRAMA

Lights! Camera! Action! These were the words the enthusiastic Drama Club members heard all year from their sponsors. To most these words were a symbol of the glamour of the stage, but to the dramatists they were a major part of stage life; rehearsals, costume changes, and learning lines.

The first Drama Club at Cocoa Beach was led by active and alert officers. They spirited the students in their major desire; to do something dramatic and to do it well.

Among their credits was the production of Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman's You Can't Take It With You, a very comical three act play contrasting the factions of money and happiness. Also, during the year, they presented several one act plays, giving everyone the experience and points which will be necessary to get them into National Thespians.

DRAMA CLUB OFFICERS: Rick Mumford-President, Gary Schadow-Vice President, Sue Vanderslice-Secretary, Mikki McKune-Treasurer.

One of the hardest working girl's clubs on campus was the Junior Tri-Hi-Y. A service organization, it maintained the very highest of standards: pure thoughts, pure actions, and pure words.

Being a service club, these girls helped with projects in the school and community, always living up to their purpose of creating, maintaining, and extending throughout the home and school and within the community, high standards of Christian character.

JR TRI HI Y

JR HI PEP

The Cocoa Beach Junior High Pep Club was an extracurricular activity which inspired true effervescence among the Junior High classes. Their main aim was to liven interest in the Junior High School teams, and to promote enthusiasm and school spirit among their fellow students.

The Pep Clubbers held bake sales, breakfasts, and other events in order to raise money to acquire buses for the away games.

RADIO

Every Saturday morning at 10:30 on WRKT radio the faithful sounds of the "Minuteman Countdown" could be heard.

After their first few ventures into the unknown art of radio programing, the small staff became familiar with the "do's and don'ts" of radio. After these experiences, each individual acquired a new confidence in his particular role of planning, rehearsing, or final presentation of a hard week's work. All combined to help produce a very fine program in memorial to John F. Kennedy.

LATIN

Endeavoring to spark interest in the ancient language of the Roman empire, the Latin Club acquainted its members with the people, history, and life of the Eternal City. These faces of Rome were animated for the students through the study of Latin plays and picture tours of Italy's famous city.

LATIN CLUB: FIRST ROW, LEFT TO RIGHT: Paul Giller, Bob Brown, Gary Hyde, Jennie Taylor, Lynn Tabeling, Bernie McLaughlin, Nan Wallace. Providing a working insight into the many faces of art, the Art Club maintained a membership of aesthetic students, who learned not only the surface values of this study, but the deeper ideals behind it.

Being heard and understood is something everyone wants. Logically swaying opinions is rewarding. The Debate Club gave strong-minded students a chance to air their views, with the aid of sound information, on important social, personal, and governmental problems.

The Debators learned and proved that facts and logic receive more thoughtful consideration than random argument.

Mu Alpha Theta, an honorary math club requiring an overall average of 3.0, operated with the idea of providing excellerated and challenging concepts for the advanced math students. It did so, as these young Euclids studied college preparatory up to fifth semester college mathematics.

Among the programs of Mu Alpha Theta, were the National Math Test, the Math Brawl with other county schools, and sponsoring several social events.

MATH

The Senior High Math Club of Cocoa Beach was designed to enable mathematically inclined students to explore the many phases of this fascinating field. The chief activities were those of math games, brain teasers, and logic problems.

Throughout the year, the Math Club members engaged in many activities as the National Math Test, visiting local computer departments, hearing prominent speakers, and giving socials.

Distributive Education, or DECA, is an educational program which provides the opportunity for qualified students to select, enter into, and progress in learning a vocation of their choice through on-the-job training correlated with in-school instruction in the general and technical aspects of the occupation.

Students are enrolled in academic and related study classes for one-half of the school day and receive on-the-job training during the other half. A minimum of 540 hours spent on the job during the school year is required to receive high school credit for this part of the program.

The qualified teacher-coordinator, Mr. Scheib, teaches the in-school part of the program and correlates instruction with the planned training schedule of the employing agency. He works closely with business representatives in planning the student's training program.

The DECA student receives many valuable assets from this fast-paced program. They shall excell because they are well equipped to receive earlier promotions, higher incomes, and a proficiency in the profession of their choice. Perhaps the best facet of this organization is that which provides the young employee with a well-rounded practical education in school and on the job.

The most important function of the Cocoa Beach High School Pep Club was to promote school spirit. To the club, school spirit meant respect and lots of cheers for the Minutemen.

The Pep Club had many activities during the year, such as sponsoring buses to the away games, and making posters and signs for the games, as well as decorating goal posts, selling different items and having bake sales and dances.

Letters were received by the members who earn them by participating in the many projects, a small reward for promoting something so worthwhile.

PARAMEDS

The Paramedical Careers Club of America was organized under the direction of Mr. Charles Bohannon, school advisor, and Mrs. Knotts and Mrs. Musselman, Medical Auxiliary sponsors. The year started with a rousing membership drive which was received with gratifying response. The Club was founded and directed with the idea of promoting knowledge, skill, and general medical proficiency among medically-minded students, male and female. These things were put into practice through a sort of "on the job training" at the Cape Canaveral Hospital, where the Parameds were a working part of hospital life. (These individuals have developed self-discipline, stamina, and dedication to their work). Their determination paid off. Several members of the club attended the district meeting in Leesburg, and four of its outstanding members attended the state convention in Ocala. The Parameds also proved to be a valuable section of our school, giving bake sales and dances, and most important of all, erecting a huge bulletin board in front of the gym.

GAA

Volleyball is more fun while dodging chairs.

Opportunities to learn fair play and good sportsmanship and to have downright fun were unsurpassed for the girls in GAA.

The Girls Athletic Association helped many girls obtain the necessary knowledge and skills of various sports such as basketball, softball, volleyball and track. Not just practice, but intelligent practice and good coaching was the "open sesame" to skill, and this club achieved its purpose if it inspired even a few girls to engage in this kind of satisfying practice.

Wrestling is a highly developed form of individual competition. On the college level and high school level, wrestling, unlike that which we see on television, is a very scientific sport. It is a one-to-one sport; one man against another, fighting not only each other but the clock. This being the club's first year in existence there were no schoduled matches interscholastically, but the boys worked hard under expert supervision to get into superb physical shape in order to be able to challenge other area schools in the future. Agility and endurance, speed and strength, thought and action were learned through expression and practice, breeding sportsmanship; the chief factor in each member's character.

WALK, TROT, CANTER! The riding club is off, learning the art of good horsemanship. They ride in three groups; Beginners, Intermediates, and Advanced, but their purpose is the same, they love horses, and wish to know more about riding them. Not only do they learn the mechanics of equitation, but also of the fun and enjoyment they can have doing so.

Among other things, these horsemen enjoyed cookouts and moonlight trailrides, and truly were able to see the countryside, not by car or bus, but on horseback!

INTERACT

With the start of a new school comes the organization of many clubs, and Cocoa Beach is no exception. A few interested boys wrote letters to the Rotary International resulting in the Chapter Interact Club of C.B.H.S.

Interact stands for leadership in the community as well as in international affairs. Developing his own potentials of leadership, and creating in himself a better understanding of his country, each member had to prove that he possessed the finer qualities of leadership by meeting the entrance requirement that he be a member of another club or a participant in athletics.

The boys of Interact were always ready to work for their school and community, and to show their willingness, many service projects were organized and carried out as they arose during the year.

STUDENT REPUBLICANS

The student Republicans were very active in the last election, passing out political material, attending rallies, and assisting many Republican headquarters whenever it was possible.

This was the first year for the student Republicans, but they did a superior job. This gave the student a chance to learn through facts, not rumors and prejudices. They also learned of the workings of our Constitution and the dangers which might challenge it.

The aims of the Student Republicans are not necessarily those of the Party, but those maintained by students who are concerned for the future of their country.

TEEN-DEMS

Election year 1964 spawned the creation and growth of Teen Democrat clubs all over the country. Cocoa Beach High School was the first county school to establish a branch of this national club, and also pioneer the formation of a Youth for Johnson Club during the campaign.

The Teen Demos was organized to give young Americans an opportunity to join in the effort to elect to office worthwhile Democratic candidates, and to serve as a training center where political issues could be discussed and debated.

For their efforts, the Cocoa Beach High School club was highly commended by both Democratic and Republican party members who maintained that the large voter turnout was due in part to the dedication of this group.

Late in the first semester of the school year the National Honor Society Charter took its place on the wall in the front office of Cocoa Beach High School. From the symbol of the burning torch, the club's name was derived; the Promethean Charter. Prometheus was the mythological character who stole the flame of knowledge from Mt. Olympus, and carried it to all men. The proud charter members planned an induction ceremony for the 14 new members, who were chosen on the basis of Scholarship, Leadership Character, and Service; the four basic requirements set forth by the National Association of Honor Society Charters. Our local chapter chose to make its academic requirement the maximum permitted by the association—a 3.5 average 9th through 12th grades. These 14 new members were recognized in an assembly held for the 10th through 12th grades, with the assistance of the members of the Cocoa Chapter.

Now, with the year's membership completed, the Promethean Chapter hoped to carry out their plans for projects. Already, they were trained as school guides. Besides attending the State Convention in Miami in the spring, their goals were to establish a tutoring service and begin a Scholarship Loans Fund for National Honor Students.

A turning note . . . a melodious hum . . . a tap on the rostrum . . . a pleasant blending of voices . . . The golden tones of our excellent chorus flowed, sometimes lightly, sometimes solemnly, to fill the air with wonderful music.

The Senior High Chorus practicing under the direction of Mr. Davis, achieved a high quality of tone and melody as well as a wide variety of musical moods. To their credit they have added many achievements, including an excellent showing at the state contest.

JUNIOR HIGH CHORUS

For the first time the Junior High Chorus learned of the power and beauty which their voices hold. They not only learned through practice but they also learned through a study of projection, tone, and blending, with an emphasis on posture.

Mr. Davis, the Choral Director did an excellent job in instructing his students so that they might be prepared for Senior High Chorus, and perhaps a singing career in the future.

The Town Crier

Beach High's first newspaper was established in December. The staff, which was originally a part of the Journalism class, has been very efficient in their reporting and printing. Covering all aspects of student life, the newspaper brought the facts of events along with the lighter side of school life to everyone here.

This aspiring group hopes someday to print all of its papers here at school on its new printing press.

The "Town Crier" succeeded in their duty of mirroring the students and their times.

LAW CLUB

A unique organization was formed at CBHS at the start of the second semester. Headed by Mr. Feely, the law club strived to further knowledge of civic and common law extending into our society and school life. Perhaps the most important goal they helped to achieve was that of instilling in the student body a genuine pride in appearance of their beautiful school. Throughout the school year, this group attempted to impress the value of our schools democratic system which was founded in order to benefit and to teach the responsibilities of society.

FASHION BOARD

The Fashion Board at Cocoa Beach High School is a newly developed organization. It is the first and only Fashion Board in the Bervard County schools at the present.

The purpose of the board is not to dictate the clothes students should wear, but only to suggest the appropriate clothing for school, dances, and other school sponsored activities. They plan to do this through various systems. Included in their plans are new bulletins issued periodically, announcements, posters, a Fashion Board Showcase, and most important—by suggesting and setting examples. Another service of the Board is picking a Best Dressed Boy and Girl of each newspaper edition. This is one of their ways of suggesting clothes types to other students.

The Fashion Showcase was set up in the library and helped many a student be in good taste at all times, as well as that special event, The Prom. The board had a Fashion Show this year, and planned a "Back to School Fashion Show" to welcome the next school year.

They caused a stir wherever they performed. Both the authentic Minuteman uniforms they wore and the music they played were worthy of favorable comment. The Minuteman band received a superior rating in their class at the district contest. This was the first time a new band had ever received such a rating.

ACTIVITIES

Along with the times of study and academics came the numerous activities. These did not just happen. There was much time and thought put into each to make it a memorable event. Some of the students organized it, some only enjoyed it; but there were always the faces; joyful, tearful, hopeful.

Perhaps one person dreamed of a theme for the prom, another planned out the halftime activities of an important football game, and another helped to make the play a reality. But all found the school activities a wonderful part of the many dreams, plans and realities of life.

QUEEN SHARON ELY

The Senior Fall Prom will be remembered by all who attended as one of the most memorable events of the school year. This was the first Prom held at our new school and was quite an experience for all.

Our gym became transferred into a ballroom for the night. A band acted as entertainment for the evening.

The newly constructed bandstand was lined with a red carpet which led to the throne of the Queen. All eyes were turned on the lovely candidates as the Queen was announced. Sharon Ely ruled over the dance for the exciting evening. Along with the corsages she and her court received, she was also presented with a lovely bouquet of beautiful long stemmed red roses.

To go along with their theme "Moonlight and Roses" the gym was decorated beautifully with roses and the lights had a moon-glow effect. Over the bandstand was a half moon extending from the ceiling, made of white roses. Refreshments were dainty cookies and cokes.

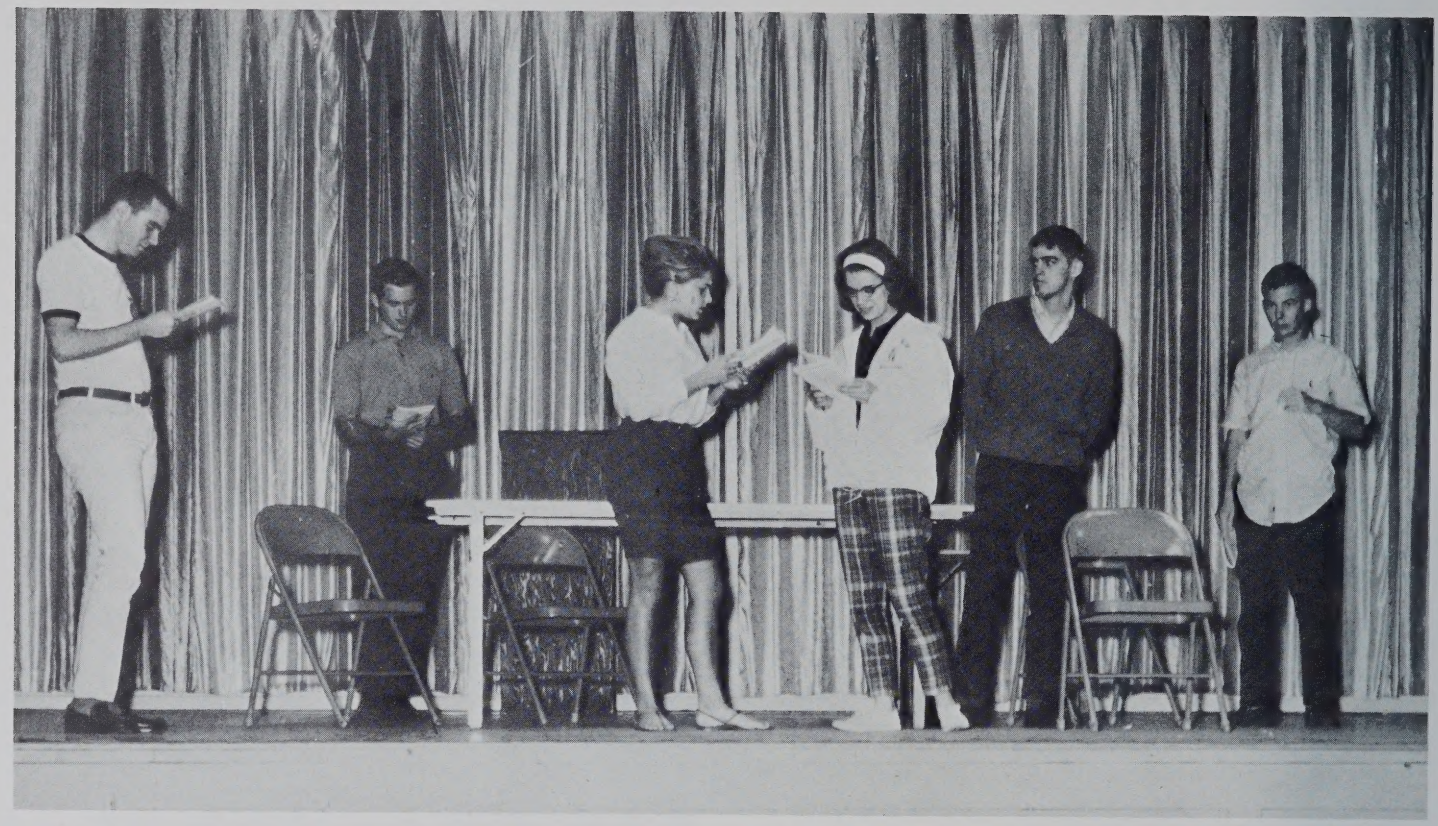
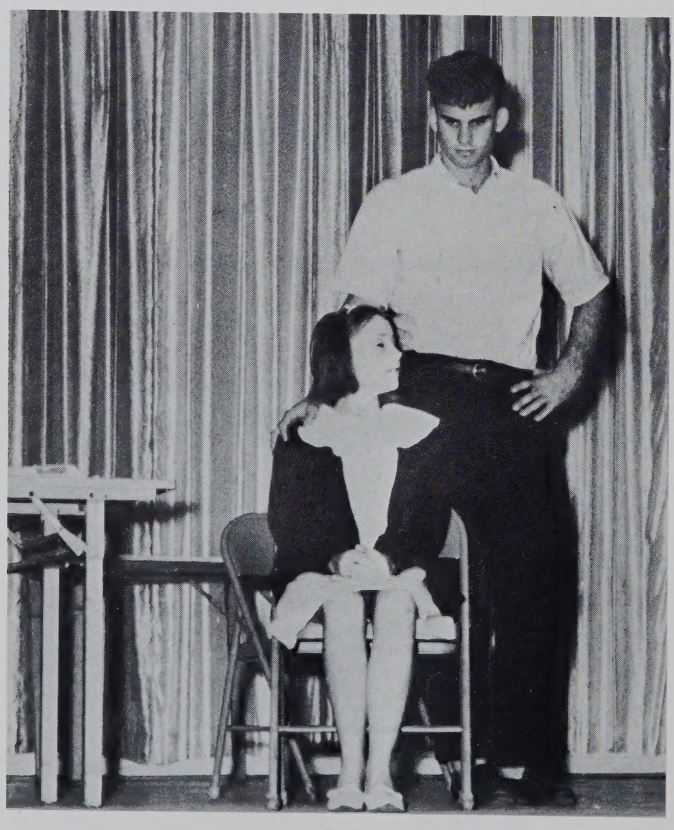
"YOU CAN'T TAKE IT WITH YOU"

". . . and my cousin Alexis, he works at Saks Fifth Avenue . . ."

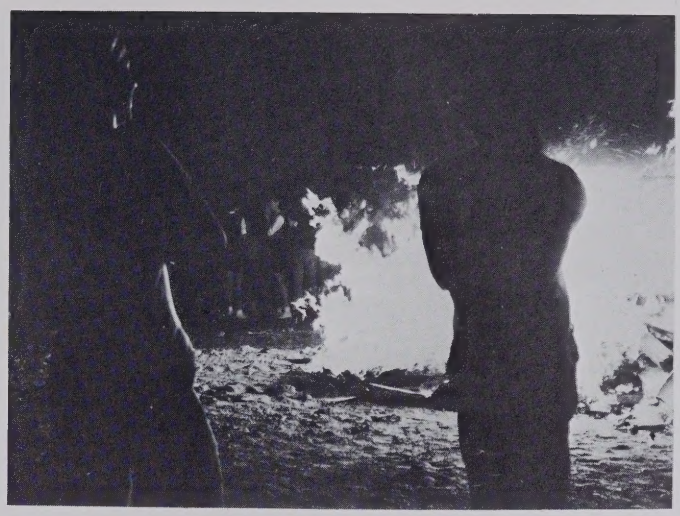


Claudia Brudy and Steve Crosby practice their parts for the play, "You Can't Take It With You."



What happens when a man headed for success decides to stop working and comes to the conclusion that life is for relaxing? The answer may be found in the comical Moss Hart production, "You Can't Take It With You." This first dramatic production at our school was the result of weeks of rehearsal, blocking and costuming. It turned out to be a pleasant success for the players, as a rewarding crowd turned out for its two nights on stage.

"Listen my children . . ."



The first "ignition" fire.

A confident Minuteman.

"Hold that Tiger!" was the saying on everyone's lips for days preceding the Minutemen's battle with the Cocoa Tigers. On the Thursday evening before the game, the cheerleaders presented a pep rally and "ignition" fire to increase the already high enthusiasm for the game. The team and its Senior captains were introduced. After a skit based on Paul Revere's ride, everyone left the gym for the fire where there were more chants and cheers. The spirit shown by the student body gave the team the pep they needed to fight their hardest every second of the game.

Get those Tigers!

The bright fire entranced many.

Junior Cheerleaders hope for a win.

Ed Torok asks for votes.

Monday, January 4, marked the start of football practice for Senior and Junior girls. These girls practiced hard under the eyes of capable coaches everyday after school and on weekends in preparation for the clash to be held under the lights at Satellite field on January 16. Spirit was high the week before the game as predictions of victory were heard from both sides. Voting for Mr. Ugly, at a penny a vote, increased the class rivalry. Friday, the girls wore their jerseys, Seniors in blue and Juniors in white, as a boost to the team morale.

Their two weeks of work were climaxed as Saturday night blew cold and damp. Both teams sat bundled in blankets looking more like Arabs than the football players they later proved to be. The Juniors kicked to the Seniors who had won the toss of the coin. Two plays later, Betsy Currier ran 55 yards for the first Senior touchdown. Her run for the extra point was also good. Early in the second quarter, Susan Cheedle crossed into the end zone for the Seniors. The run for the point was called back because of a Senior penalty. The Juniors made their only touchdown in the third quarter with Jeannette Johnston carrying the ball. Their attempt at an extra point failed. The Senior defense dashed any further attempts of the Juniors to score.

The Senior candidate, Ed Torok, was crowned with the proper pomp and circumstances during the half time festivities. Miss January, Sharon Todd, presented Mr. Ugly with his crown and his bouquet of cauliflowers and radishes.

A twirp dance was given after the game for the team members and fans by the Seniors. The Junior and Senior coaches presented trophies to the girls who they felt had been outstanding in the game. Junior winners were Barbara Baggett—Outstanding Player; Peggy Murphy—Best Lineman; and Linda Demming—Best Back. Senior recipients were Betsy Currier—Outstanding Player; Jo Martin—Best Lineman; and Joanne Jankovic—Best Back.

ATHLETICS

Working with determination at a summer practice.

Running through dummy offensive plays.

When Cocoa Beach High School was in the planning stage, its athletic teams were still a dream. The boys of Cocoa Beach, the future Minutemen, dreamed of great teams with seasons comprised of only victories. Their coaches coveted the dream of having enough boys to form a team. Both dreams were carried to the practice fields where their dreams became strategic plans for the attack and destruction of all threatening enemies. These plans took many hours to perfect. The boys had to be prepared both physically and mentally for every battle they fought. In the end, their practice did pay, as the Minutemen surprised their opponents with their spirit and drive. They were a credit to their school and their community, surpassing everyone's highest expectations for the first year teams because they wanted success to the end. They "never said die."

Their plan for victory.

First victory on their home court.

The football team's first reality.

A losing effort.

Minuteman football coach Eddie Feely.

"This team was the only first team that we ever could have had. We'll have teams that will win more ballgames, but we'll never have a better team than this." These words of praise from Dr. Constans were not the only ones the 1964-1965 Minuteman football team received at the end of their first season. Theirs was the "Never Say Die" squad; the team that never quit, no matter what the score. They were the "Thin Blue Line" holding back their opponents to the very end. Although they had spirit and the will to win, this spirit was sometimes dampened by their larger, more experienced foes. When they lost, they lost as a team. When they won, it was a victory for the entire squad. Win or lose, the Minutemen left the field with their heads held high, knowing they had done their best.

Aroused by a tremendous send off from their homeland, the Minutemen of Cocoa Beach High undertook their first battle on the field of New Smyrna Beach. With inexperience hindering their attack, but with pride forcing them on, they set out to defend the reputation of their school just as the Minutemen of 1775 defended their home. They were destined to be on the defensive for the entire war of 1964, and they were well prepared to take on any foe who might endanger their territory. All efforts of the offense, led by Dave Tincher, were repelled by the Barracudas, though; and the Minutemen returned with the desire for victory even more acute.

Once again the Minutemen were called upon to protect Cocoa Beach High. This time the Melbourne Central Catholic Hustlers were attacking on the home ground of Cocoa Beach. However, the Hustlers were soon driven back by outstanding defensive as well as offensive work on the front lines. Bob Ross led the first attack early in the contest making the initial touchdown. Dave Tincher, in the waning minutes of the game gave the Minutemen the needed security of a one touchdown lead which was kept until the final whistle sounded signalling the first Minuteman victory of the season.

After a week of spirit-building which included Tiger-stealing, flag pole greasing, pep rallies, and an ignition fire, the "Thin Blue Line" began a new rivalry with the Bengals of Cocoa. Two quick Cocoa touchdowns were allowed in the excitement of the first few moments of the game. However, the fighting Minutemen refused to surrender and in the third quarter sophomore quarterback Craig Nichols made an 8 yard run for the only Cocoa Beach touchdown of the evening. Although the Minutemen failed to settle down in time to defeat the mighty Tigers, they proved to their opponents that they never gave up.

Against favored Eau Gallie High School, the "Never Say Die" squad truly lived up to its name. The heavier and more experienced Commodores held a weak 7 point lead until the fourth quarter when a recovered fumble gave CBHS possession of the ball. Then the passing combination of Craig Nichols to Vern Thortsen exploded for one touchdown and the set up of another Nichols touchdown run. This upset victory boosted the morale of the team and its followers at a time when it was needed most.

The kickoff epitomizes hours of practice.

Fresh from the unexpected victory of the previous week, the Minutemen were prepared once again to fight for their honor. On the third play of the game, Dave Tincher crashed through enemy lines for the first touchdown of the night. Soon afterwards, Buster Venable received a Craig Nichols pass and ran for another score, but he was ruled out of bounds on the 20 yard line. In the second quarter Jim Alvarez recovered a fumble in the back field and raced 35 yards to the end zone; but, this too, was nullified because of a Beach penalty. In the second half, Tincher charged past all tacklers again for the second official touchdown. Still in the third quarter, a Nichols to Thortsen pass was good for another six points. The final Cocoa Beach score came in the fourth when Dick Montgomery carried the ball for a touchdown on his eighth consecutive play.

SEABREEZE

All attempts for victory failed.

The Minutemen traveled to Daytona Beach for the last battle of the 1964 campaign. The Seabreeze Sandcrabs, though highly favored, did not seem to be able to fight their way past "The Thin Blue Line," and did not score until the final minutes of the fourth quarter. All Minutemen efforts for victory were repulsed when, with seconds left in the game, Cocoa Beach fumbled on the two yard line. Battle-worn and victory-eluded, the Minutemen returned home to re-gather their forces for the next series of battles.

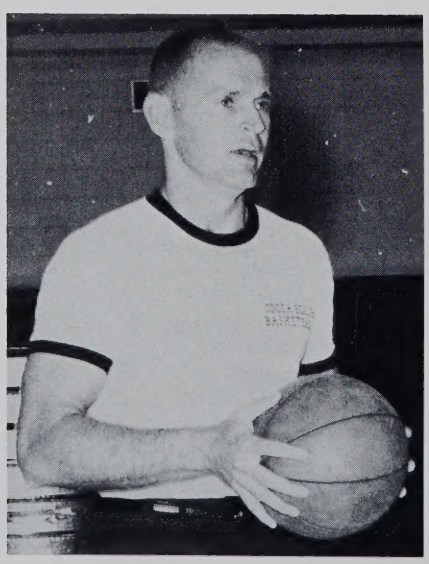
VARSITY BASKETBALL

COACH TOM WASDIN



Soon after the close of football season, another squad was readied to defend the honor of Cocoa Beach High. The first games of the season sent the inexperienced Minutemen in retreat. After regathering their forces over the Christmas holidays, the team advanced to meet any foe daring to challenge them on their home court. It took six games for their opponents to determine the Minutemen strategy. When they did, the team went both ways, winning some and losing others. The season ended victoriously with a decisive win over the Oviedo Lions. The team worked hard in every game, many of which were decided by only a point. Their fans were with them to the end as they went on to district competition.

"Two Bits, ready? Let's go!"

The cheerleaders helped to improve and increase two things at Cocoa Beach High: spirit and sportsmanship. Their uniforms, their looks, the perfect precision of their routines made everyone proud they were from C.B.H.S. Both varsity and junior varsity squads worked hard during the football and basketball seasons to give their teams plenty of support. Cheer they did, lead they tried; but the sometimes small rooting section, not inspired by the success of the teams, reduced the enthusiasm they could have produced.

Many sports are included under the category of "spring sports." To the athletes of C.B.H.S., it meant track, baseball, swimming, golf and tennis practice daily after school. It meant competing with others in meets and games. It meant victory and defeat.

The track team started practice after Christmas vacation. They worked on improving their skills and building up stamina. Like the other Beach teams, the tracksters suffered from a lack of experienced boys.

The first graduating class of Cocoa Beach High School came together for the initial time last fall. Since that time these Seniors have dreamed, planned, and worked toward the culmination of many activities—some individual, yet others as a group.

The first class to organize and elect officers, the Class of 1965 soon gained schoolwide interest by holding the first annual Senior Fall Prom. The daily breakfasts in the cafeteria secured a great popularity among the students. The Powderpuff Classic was an event which sparked much enthusiasm among the members of the Senior Class. In this contest the class was brought together to defend its name. The triumphant Seniors truly gave the class reason to be proud. Finally the realization came that graduation was not far off when Seniors began receiving notices of acceptance or rejection from colleges. They were saddened by leaving their alma mater, but they looked to the future and the bright hope it held.

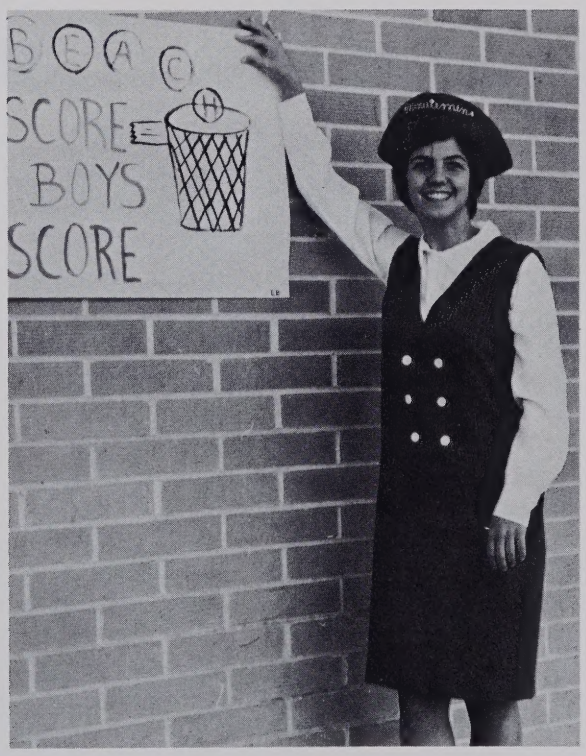
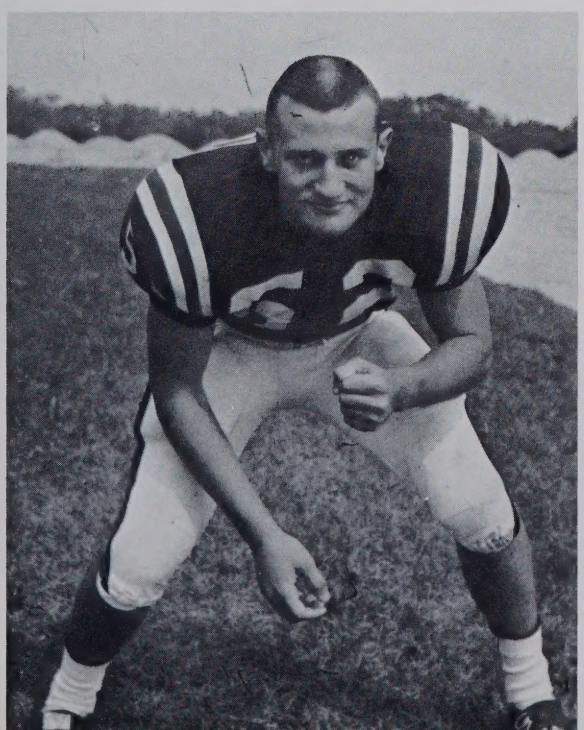
Besides participating in football, basketball and baseball, Dave held the position of treasurer in both the Lettermen's and Interact Clubs.

OUTSTANDING SENIORS

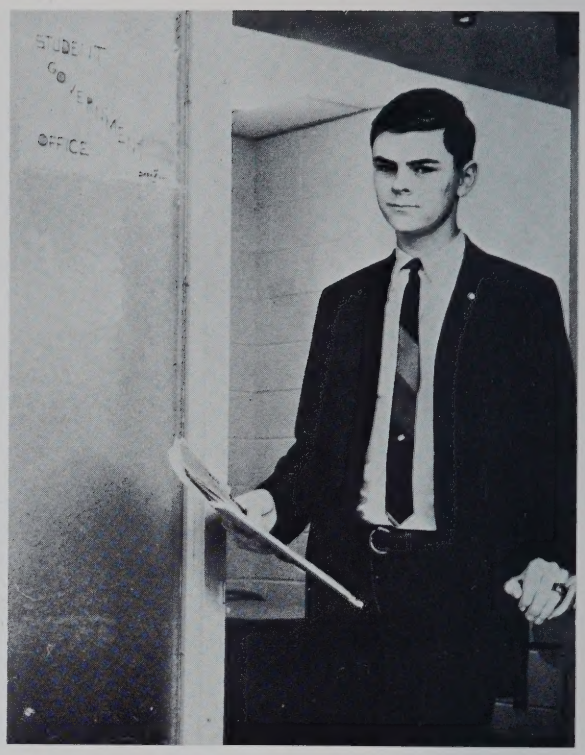


Linda Bek contributed much time to Cocoa Beach High as captain of the varsity cheerleaders. She was also active in student government and was a member of the Beta Club.



Richard Bordin was very active in organizing Cocoa Beach High's new idea for student government. He was co-captain of the football team and was voted the most outstanding player. Richard also served as President of the Lettermen's Club.

Betsy Currier was editor of the first edition of the Heritage. She was also captain of the Senior Powderpuff team. Betsy scored a touchdown and an extra point for which she was awarded the Outstanding Player trophy.



Terry Freeman worked hard to help organize Cocoa Beach High's new form of student government. He was also on the Board of Directors in the Interact Club.

As Senior class Treasurer, Pat McLaughlin had many duties which she handled well. Pat also held the position of subscription manager of the Heritage. She was a member of Cocoa Beach High's swim team.

Although he was unable to complete the football season due to a broken collarbone, Ken Peeples received the scholarship and spirit awards for his contribution to the team. He was also President of Interact, Vice President of Lettermen's Club and a Justice for the Law Club.

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS

The Juniors are preparing to step into the most important and pace-setting position in the school, as members of the Senior Class. With ideas as building blocks, they made the Junior class a proud industrious element of the school. They achieved this through unified efforts on various class projects such as calendar and magazine sales and sponsoring the first Junior-Senior Prom. The Junior class is certainly ready to take over the responsibilities of being Cocoa Beach High's Senior Class.

SOPHOMORE CLASS OFFICERS

The members of the Sophomore class have found themselves mid-way in their school career. Behind them they saw the light carefree days of Junior High School; ahead lay the important decisions of Senior High School. They had two paths from which to choose. They could stand and gaze at the past, or they could forge forward to meet the challenges of their future years. The class of "67" chose to progress through hard study and preparation. They have become proud and dedicated Minutemen.

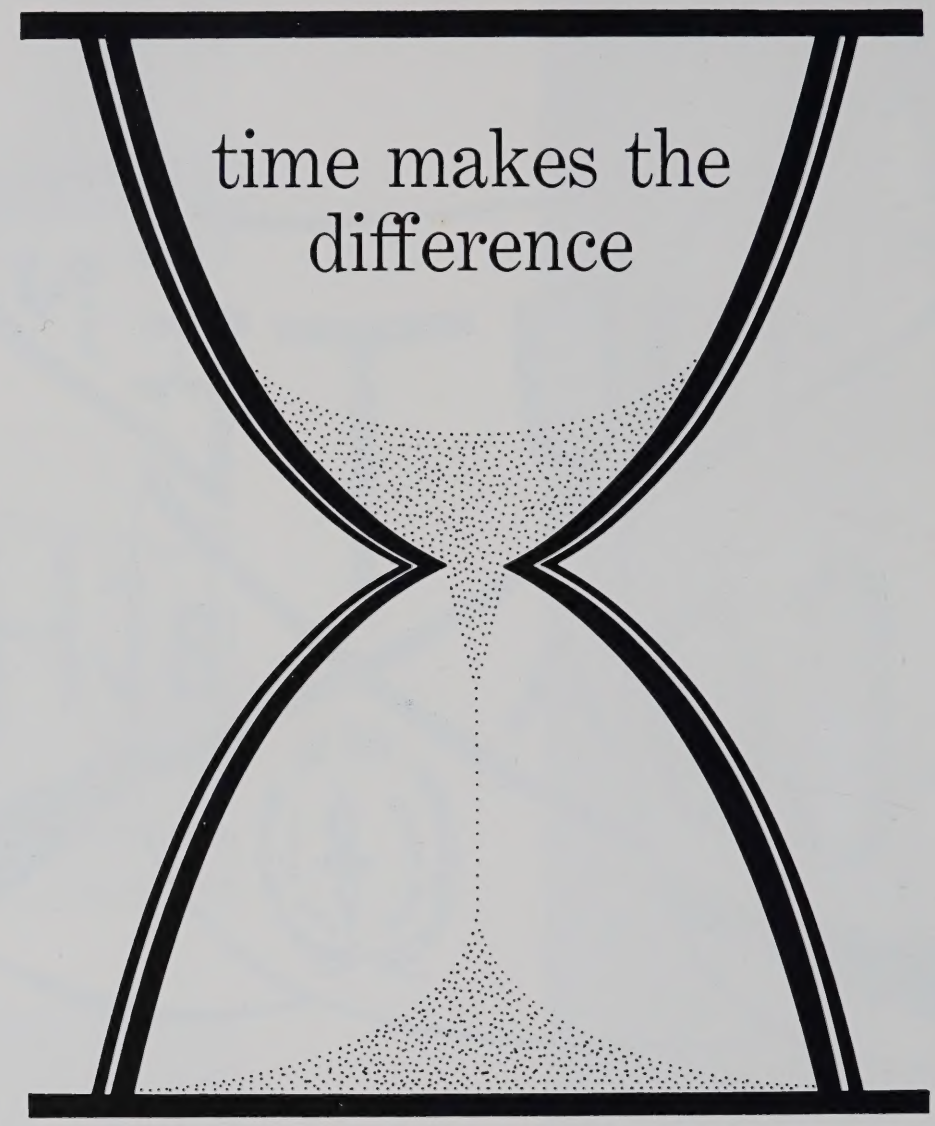
COMMUNITY LIFE



Experience and knowledge in any field take time. Experienced people are reliable and you can depend on their decisions . . . they know their business. The officers of the Cocoa Beach State Bank have over one hundred twenty-five combined years of banking experience. They know their business . . . you can rely on their decisions to best serve your financial requirements. Under their guidance the Cocoa Beach State Bank offers you full banking services from family savings, personal and business loans to investment counseling and trust accounts. Remember, experience and knowledge take time. Bank with confidence at the Cocoa Beach State Bank.
